© by Catherine L. Gowdy

Michael Calhoun Dufficy was the first of his family to settle in Marin County.

Born in or near the town of Strokestown, Roscommon County, Ireland, on December 29, 1839 to Francis and Alicia (Lane) Dufficy, the family moved to England and then emigrated to the United States in 1846. They went to New Orleans, Louisiana where Francis died in 1848. He had been a surveyor and engineer. On November 7, 1852, Mrs. Dufficy and her children, Michael C., Thomas J., Dennis, Henry, Jane and Bridget, traveled to California via the Isthmus of Panama aboard the steamer, Falcon, for the Atlantic portion of the voyage, and then on the steamer, Northerner, on the Pacific, arriving in San Francisco late in December of that year. They stayed in San Francisco until 1854, and then went to Marysville where, according to Michael's obituary, he "engaged in mining during those early days of gold excitement." He became involved in a grocery store, became a Notary Public, and operated two hotels; he was an agent for the stagecoach run from Marysville to La Porte and an owner of land in Yuba County. He returned to San Francisco in 1876 where he continued in the hotel business and was a money broker. He moved to San Rafael and opened the Grand Central hotel from which he retired in 1886 when he was elected a Justice of the Peace and began studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1894 and thereafter practiced that profession, retiring about 1909.

Michael C. Dufficy and Edwina O'Brien were married in Marysville on February 2, 1863. She was a native of Dubuque, Iowa and the daughter of Dr. James and Eliza O'Brien. The O'Brien family had come to California by covered wagon in 1849 and settled in Sacramento. Dr. O'Brien practiced medicine there and later in Oroville, Butte County; in 1858 he was appointed superintendent of the Butte County Hospital and Infirmary and also elected County Coroner. He died in San Francisco on December 12, 1871.

Edwina O'Brien Dufficy died at her home on Fourth Street in San Rafael on June 10 (cemetery) or 11 (newspaper), 1913. She was born December 31, 1844 and grew up in Oroville and Marysville. She attended Notre Dame College and was the charter president of the alumni association. In San Rafael she involved herself in many charitable organizations, was president of the Ladies Aid Society of the Catholic church, and was assistant president of the Associated Bureau of Charities. She and her husband were married for fifty years and had thirteen children. On Sunday, February 2, 1913, they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in their home on Fourth Street in San Rafael among friends and family. Present were Mrs. Jane Tomb of Marysville, sister of Judge Dufficy, and Mrs. Josephine F. Woodward, a sister of Mrs. Dufficy, they being the witnesses at the marriage in 1863.

Mr. Dufficy died on May 6, 1919 at his home, age 79 years. Both are buried in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. The couple was survived by nine of their thirteen children: Mary C., Edwina, George W., Josephine, Veronica A., Charles M., Alicia L., Elizabeth M., and Rafael G. Dufficy.

Victor Dufficy, born 1874, is also buried in St. Joseph Cemetery in Marysville. His stone says he died January 22, 1875 at age 10 months 18 days. The grandmother of these children, Alice Dufficy, is also buried in this cemetery; her stone gives the date June 4, 1897 and the age of 87 years.

Josephine E. Dufficy, born January 8, 1876, was a graduate of Dominican College and the State Normal School. She taught for a time in the San Francisco schools. She died November 15, 1951, age 76 years, and is buried in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. I am told that Josephine and William Barry had three daughters: Edwina, Barbara and Wilma. An article dated July 4, 1903 in the Marin Tocsin describes Edwina as "a sweet dark-eyed child ..."
